

ELECTION CONTESTS TO BE HEARD TODAY

Attorney General Will Take Up Deadlocks in Northumberland and Blair Counties

BUSY WEEK AT THE CAPITOL

Harrisburg, Dec. 19.—Preliminary hearings scheduled tomorrow by George E. Alter, Attorney General, in the contests of judicial elections in Northumberland and Blair Counties, promise to develop into interesting legal battles and to bring to the capital a number of people interested in the recent judicial campaigns in those counties.

The law requires petitions for contests to be filed with the Attorney General who, after hearings, advises the Governor whether he should convene special courts to hear the contests. Such contests always prove expensive proceedings, and in the past have lasted in some instances more than a year. The two inaugurated are the first to be taken up in a single day by an Attorney General. In event the Attorney General advises the Governor there are grounds for convening a special court, the three judges residing nearest to Sunbury and Hollidaysburg would sit.

Payment of 1920 allotments of proceeds of the State tax on premiums of foreign fire insurance companies originating in Pennsylvania to municipalities for their firemen's relief funds, about which there has been much discussion, probably will be started within a short time. The 1919 payments are completed and checks for the first of the 1920 allotments may be started from the Treasury this week. The Treasury now is paying the smaller districts sums on the general educational account, having completed payment on the salary increase account.

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Johnstown Water Case Arguments

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

"MENEKO" Talking Machines at $55.00

250 Talking Machines of the finest quality; the entire stock of the Singer Phonograph Manufacturing Company, Camden, N. J., at less than their cost of production. Genuine Mahogany Case, superior equipment, 46 inches high, plays all records. Opportunities that you cannot afford to miss.

Delaware Housefurnishing Co. Manufacturer, Wholesale and Retail Dealer of the better kind of Furniture. Kensington Ave. & Cambria St.

Conklin Fountain Pen

$2.50 and up There's No Better Gift for the Money

Yeo & Lukens Co. Stationers Printers

MFRS. OF BLANK BOOKS 12 N. 13th St. 71 Walnut St.

State Highway Department and City which received far more than 1000 to handle early applications. The department's automobile division is beginning to receive something like the expected amount. In spite of urging to file applications early, comparatively few persons did so.

New Class in Corn Show

Agricultural experts and organizations back of the sixth annual State Farm Products Show, to be held here January 23-27, have established a new class in the corn show in an effort to find a variety best suited for growing conditions in each section of the State. The show is arranged by the State Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania State College and other agricultural bodies.

In an announcement of the new "utility" class in the corn exhibit here yesterday it is explained that heretofore prizes have been awarded only to corn exhibits which conform to the usual show standards. The results did not fit the practical purposes sought by bringing out the varieties that give the best yield and are most profitable in the different sections. In the new class five specified varieties may be entered, and in judging them germination and freedom from disease will count considerably.

All corn for entry in this class must be received by January 1, and the State Department of Agriculture explains that entries may be made by farmers either to the county farm agents at once or to the department headquarters here.

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

The Capitol will be closed Friday for the Christmas holiday and most of the departments will reopen the following Tuesday.

With a few exceptions, the State game season has ended, and from all reports an exceptional kill of deer occurred this year with what Game Commission officials term a gratifying decrease in the number of illegal killings. Efforts now are being made to find out the total kill of game of all kinds, but it will take some time, owing to the fact that more hunters than ever before were licensed. It is believed that possibly 450,000 had licenses.

This is the busy time for licenses at

Men elected justices of the peace in some rural communities who failed to file their acceptances of office with the prothonotaries of their counties have been informed they will not be given commissions, and some of them, if they wish to hold the office, will have to file petitions for appointment with the Governor. The Legislature passed a law a few years ago requiring justices to file acceptances so that commissions would not remain unclaimed at offices of recorders. In years gone by a commission was made out for each person elected justice, but at times dozens were unclaimed and the office remained vacant; the commission finding their way back to the State Department in course of time.

Executive sessions of the Public Service Commission this week will be important, in view of the visit paid to Washington by State Commissioners for consultation with Interstate Commerce Commission officials relative to safety regulations on railroads operating wooden passenger cars with gas-lighting appliances. The commission will hear argument in the Johnstown water case and other cases Monday and will have executive meetings Tuesday. An unusually large calendar has been prepared for the meeting of the State Board of Pardons on Wednesday, but there is only one capital case in the more than forty cases listed. Twenty-one counties are represented and the crimes range from murder to carrying concealed weapons.

IMPORTERS, DESIGNERS AND MAKERS OF WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S APPAREL OF THE HIGHEST CHARACTER FOR MORE THAN TWENTY-SIX YEARS

Gowns, Wraps, Suits, Fur, Blouses, Sweaters, Hosiery, Millinery, Skirts, Lingerie, Negligees, Petticoats, Children's Apparel

The Better Blouses Sharply Reduced

The more exclusive models—numbering about one hundred and fifty, have been materially reduced in price. Limited to the exclusiveness of one-of-a-kind—

Models of Distinction
 18.75 Blouses, Reduced to 11.95
 22.50 Blouses, Reduced to 14.95
 25.00 Blouses, Reduced to 16.95
 29.50 Blouses, Reduced to 19.95
 32.50 Blouses, Reduced to 22.95

Every Velvet Hat Regardless of Former Higher Price Reduced to 2.50
 No exceptions. A most unusual opportunity. Many beautiful styles.
All Sales Final
 We Specialize in Apparel That Slenderizes The Larger Woman

Cheerful Christmas News for Puzzled People at the Electric Shop

Two of the most popular Christmas Gifts are here—electric cleaner and electric lamp—at such attractive inducements that the wearied gift-seeker will joyfully and eagerly add them to his list.

Hoover Electric Cleaner—$2.50 First Payment
 Write "Hoover Electric Cleaner" opposite your wife's, mother's or sister's name on the gift list—and you have the satisfaction of knowing that you have made the best kind of a happy selection. Such exceptionally attractive terms as we offer this Christmas—only $2.50 first payment—are an extra inducement to the giver.

Also another exceptional cleaner special: FREE, with each Phila. Electric or Eureka cleaner sold before Christmas, a complete set of cleaning attachments—nine pieces with the Phila. Electric cleaner and four pieces with the Eureka. Let our electric cleaner experts at the Electric Shop show you these cleaners in practical use.

Beautiful Christmas Lamps on easy payments—costing $15 and over
 What a wonderful opportunity this unprecedented offer of easy terms of payment on our beautiful Christmas lamps gives our customers who are looking either for a gift lamp or a new lamp for their own home. You choose the lamp you like best from our large and lovely collection and divide the cost into several monthly payments. Plenty of lovely lamps of all kinds from which to choose—be sure to visit the beautiful glowing display at the Electric Shop. Prices are right, too. Only one suggestion: Make your selections as soon as possible.

Something Electrical for Everybody

Such a variety of things electrical from which to choose!
Labor-Savers: electric washers, cleaners, dishwashers, sewing machines, ironers.
Utility Gifts: electric percolators, toasters, grills, waffle irons, chafing dishes, samovars.
Personal Comforts: electric curling irons, heating pads, vibrators, hair dryers, milk bottle warmers, radiators, shaving mugs.
$99 for this new A. B. C. Electric Washer
 At last—a really good, practical electric washer at the price so many people have waited for—$99. A. B. C. make—one of the best-known and oldest established washer manufacturers in the country—oscillating type, copper tub, handsome and durable finish. Very simple in construction—six sheet size—and plenty big enough to do a regular family washing. Let our electric washer experts show you this new A. B. C. model in actual operation.

All Gift Packages in Attractive Christmas Wrappings

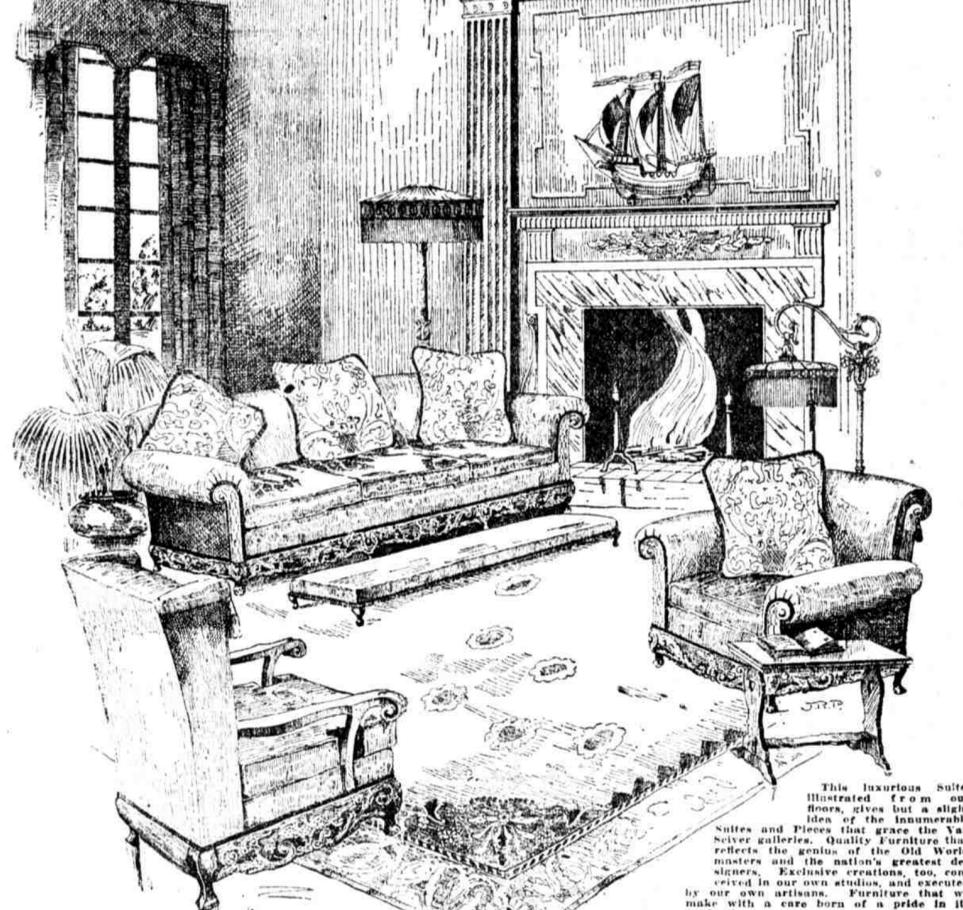

The PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC COMPANY
 TENTH AND CHESTNUT STREET
 9 S. 40th St. 6th and Diamond Sts. 4600 Frankford Ave. 3100 Kensington Ave.
 18th St. and Columbia Ave. Broad and Ruscomb Sts. (Logan) 7 and 9 W. Chelton Ave.
 Broad and Wharton Sts.
DELAWARE COUNTY ELECTRIC COMPANY
 Chester Media Lansdowne

Acres of Furniture Gifts High In Quality But Not In Price

We never knew of a Christmas when Furniture—from complete Suites to the smallest Pieces—was in such demand for gifts as now. Small wonder, for it is Furniture and Furnishings that really make the home, give it the Christmas touch of comfort and hospitality. Best of all, the prices have not been so low in years, and what is equally important, you will find them lower here than in any other Store in America.

Thousands of Suites and Pieces. Not only Furniture for every kind of home, but vast galleries that are filled with quaint and practical gifts. The kind that embody the finer sentiments of the Holiday season. Things that give the sense of companionship and lasting delight to those you wish to honor.

Come see this wonderland of Furniture for yourself. Our padded and dust-proof auto vans will deliver your purchases in time to multiply the joys of Christmas.

SOME OF THE MANY RARE VALUES

DINING ROOM
 Walnut Queen Anne Dining-Room Suite, 4 pieces, $139.00
 Oak Dining-Room Suite, 4 pieces, $187.50
 $370.00 Walnut Queen Anne Dining-Room Suite, 4 pieces, $290.00
 Very special, Mahogany Queen Anne Dining-Room Suite, 10 pieces, $315.00
 Brown Mahogany William-and-Mary Dining-Room Suite, 10 pieces, $475.00
 $750.00 DuPonts Walnut Dining-Room Suite, 10 pieces, $550.00

Bedroom
 $665.00 Walnut Dining-Room Suite, 10 pieces, $750.00
 $1100.00 Antique Mahogany Chippendale Suite, 10 pieces, $900.00
 $230.00 Walnut Bedroom Suite, 4 pcs., $185.00
 $425.00 Mahogany-Brown Bedroom Suite, 4 pieces, $275.00
 Bird's-Eye Maple Bedroom Suite, 5 pieces, $310.50
 Very special, English Mahogany Suite, 7 pieces, $385.00

Living-Room Furniture at Equally Great Values
 $525.00 Walnut Bedroom Suite, 8 pcs., $425.00
 Walnut Queen Anne Bedroom Suite, 7 pieces, $229.50
 Walnut Ebony Louis XV Bedroom Suite, 8 pieces, $625.00
 Mahogany Queen Anne Bedroom Suite, 7 pieces, $210.00
 American Walnut Louis XVI Bedroom Suite, 9 pieces, $875.00

Opportunities in Wicker Furniture
 Immediate Delivery of Wicker Furniture Now or When Desired.
 A Fairland of Furniture whose exquisite colorings and rich upholstered effects appeal to all beholders. Choose from the smallest of pieces to the most elaborate Suites—at values that are head and shoulders over anything we ever assembled in the Wicker Furniture line.

Rocher as Illustrated
 In Baronial Brown, $13.50
 In Frosted Brown, $14.75
 Chairs to match, same price

Birdcage With Reed Stand, $14.50
 Height, 65 in. Diameter of base, 15 in. Metal Case is removable from the stand; also has removable tray bottom.

Handsome Tambour Mantel Clock, $25.75
 Finished in mahogany. One of the best American movements. Hour and half-hour strike on sonorous chime tube. Has five-inch silvered dial, and convex glass with gold-finish bezel. Width, 21 in.; height, 2 1/2 in.; depth, 8 1/2 in. An incomparable value, $25.75. Seven other styles of the same make, $24.00 to $30.00.

Mahogany Gothic Clock, $10.75
 This dainty and ornamental Clock is fashioned after what is said to be the oldest Savings Bank in the World. Has solid guaranteed movement. Height, 9 in.; width, 5 in.

SAVE ON FLOOR COVERINGS

A Christmas Opportunity. Rugs for every room, and every kind of home. All of standard quality, for which this Store of a year ago. Those in need of Floor Coverings should take advantage of this opportunity NOW.

ALL ORIENTAL RUGS REDUCED
 Persian and Turkish weaves at one-half less than the prices of last Christmas. Choose Chinese Rugs here at pre-war prices. Beautiful designs, rich colorings. NEW SHIPMENTS OF SMALL RUGS JUST IN TIME FOR GIFTS. Mossus, Kurdistans, Porgamos and Iragas. Sizes from 3.4x4.6 to 4.4x6.7, at $45.00 to $75.00. Saruks, sizes from 4.10x3.3 to 5.5x5.4—at $90.00 to $125.00. The finest weaves and the richest colorings.

TIMELY GIFT SUGGESTIONS
 Book Cases, Writing Desks, Console Tables, Davenport, Library, Pedestal & Writing Tables, Sewing Tables, Nest Tables, Mirrors, Tea Wagons, Telephone Stands, Clothes Poles, Serving Trays, Chase Longues, Reclining Chairs, Clocks for hall, wall, mantel, boudoir and desk, Rugs, Oriental and Domestic, Aquariums, Dinner Chimes, Music Cabinets, Brass Beds, Draperies, Fancy Pillows, Lace Scarfs and Dollies, Fireplace Furnishings, Leather Table Mats, Bed Spreads, Blankets and Quilts, Office Furniture, Filing Cases, Sectional Book Cases, Wash Basins

J. B. Van Sciver Co.
 Manufacturers, Importers and Retailers
MARKET STREET FERRY, CAMDEN, N. J.